

Hillsborough, NC Arts Council Review
January, 2015

"David Russell warmed the sold-out January Concert audience with a virtuoso's mastery of Piedmont-style guitar, flatfingerpicking and slide, combined with a polished, beautiful voice. He kept the intimate setting joyous with an easy-going collection of stories, memories of country, bluegrass and honky-tonk moments, and played off the occasional audience comments with ease. The man has played great halls, and intimate dives, and knows how to entertain a crowd or a small, friendly room that is the hallmark of the Parlor Concert series from the HAC. He honored Doc Watson, the Delmore Brothers, and the Louvin Brothers & even sang a song by Stephen Foster and several choice songs he had written. His command of classic country music styles left the lucky Parlor Concert-goers in full appreciation. Thanks, David for a great concert- a fabulous musical journey was taken by all!"--
